

Amanda Davey

Associate

2010

Qualified in graphic design and planning, Amanda brings highly developed research and analytical skills to her role at URPS specializing in policy development. One of Amanda's key strengths is her ability to 'see the wood for the trees' by synthesising background material to provide meaningful planning directions. This approach underpins her work on Development Plan Amendments, natural resource management and demographic analyses. Amanda's background in graphic design also means that she is able to enhance her strong writing skills with diagrams, images and maps that express ideas clearly and represent issues spatially. Her diligence and thoroughness means that she is also an excellent development facilitator/assessor.
