

Rebecca Gosling MPIA

Associate

Qualifications

Bachelor of Urban and Regional Planning
University of South Australia (2009)

Rebecca is an experienced statutory planner who has worked in two councils in South Australia in both a regional and urban environment.

Her diverse background in Local Government means she has gained extensive technical knowledge on a variety of planning matters ranging from board acre land divisions, agriculture, tourist accommodation to residential and commercial projects of varying scales.

Rebecca firmly believes that open and clear communication between all parties is vital to ensure projects are processed in an efficient manner.

From her time with the City of Charles Sturt, Rebecca is particularly experienced with medium and high-density infill development and commercial applications. Her background managing large scale projects highlighted the importance of being adaptable, pragmatic and solution focussed.

Rebecca embodies the URPS way – she is energised, responsive and determined in the way she applies herself professionally.
